'SSUE PERMIT FOR HOTEL BUILDING

C. W. Ingledue Says Work on Glendale Avenue Structure To Start at Once

A building permit totaling 380,000 to erect a hotel at the northeast corner of East Broadway and Glendale avenue was taken out this morning by C. W. Ingledue, president of the Ambrosini Hotel company, reports Superintendent H. C. Vandewater of the building department.

Mr. Ingledue told a reporter of the Glendale Evening News that work would start within four or five days and would be the occasion of a community celebration, when suggestions for a suitable name for the hotel will be received and a prize awarded the person who submits the winning name.

Approve Plans

The names "Hotel Glendale" and "Hotel San Rafael," suggested at the stockholders' meeting held last night at the Harrower laboratory, 920 East Broadway, appear the most popular to date. This meeting approved the plans for the hotel and empowered Mr. Ingledue to take out the permit.

The hotel will cost $415,000, according to figures given out by Mr. Ingledue. In addition, the plot of ground, fronting 236 feet on East Broadway and 129 feet on North Glendale avenue, is valued at $200,000, bringing the total investment close to three-quarters of a million dollars.

Four-Story Building

The hotel will be four stories in height, Mr. Ingledue stated, and will contain a total of 189 rooms, of which 144 will be combined into 72 apartments with living room, kitchen, breakfast nook and bath, the other 45 rooms being straight hotel rooms with bath. In short, every room will have a bath, and the arrangement is elastic enough so that the rooms may be combined in groups or suites, either as apartments or hotel rooms.

On the main floor will be a public dining room 40 by 60 feet, while on the second floor will be a private dining room, 24 by 48 feet, with a little stage at one end, for luncheon clubs, parties, dances and other community functions.

Outside Exposure

There will be four wings and three courts, making every room an outside exposure. Two passenger elevators and one freight elevator will serve the hotel.

The building contract has been let to the Luther T. Mayo company of Los Angeles, Mr. Ingledue states. Arthur G. Lindley, one of the stockholders of the Ambrosini Hotel company, is the supervising architect. The mortgages have been placed and are in process of recording, while the portion of cost not covered in this way was raised by community subscription, the hotel thus being truly a Glendale project, Mr. Ingledue feels.

Large Basement

Beneath the whole building will be a large basement, much of which will be devoted to club rooms, bowling alleys and other activities of a similar nature. There will be 148 feet of shops facing Broadway and 56 feet of shops along Glendale avenue, thus making this end of the city one of the most fashionable shopping centers, declares Mr. Ingledue.

Suggestions for names for this big new hotel should be sent to C. W. Ingledue at his office, 109 South Glendale avenue.

Search Lorain Ruins For Victims of Storm

LORAIN, Ohio, July 1.—A systematic search of the ruins of homes on the east side was begun today, and it was believed that some of the twenty-five officially listed as missing as a result of Saturday's tornado might be found in the wreckage. The Red Cross reported seventy-six known dead thus far. Funerals for twenty-seven will be held today.

Requests for information regarding missing persons, believed to be in Lorain, continued to pour into Red Cross hospitals and at the offices of city officials.

While all possible efforts were being made to check these, the Red Cross was withholding publication of those lost and not identified in the list of dead.

Members of Sewer Committee Confer With City Council

At the request of the City Council, the Sewer Advisory committee met this morning with the former body as a committee of the whole, for the purpose of going over the revised sewer ordinance that will come up at Thursday's session of the council.

"The ordinance was gone over in detail and everything possible will be done to speed up the start of work on this great project for which the people of Glendale some time back voted $1,600,000 in bonds," declares Bert P. Woodard, attorney, who serves as secretary of the committee.

Those present in addition to the members of the City Council were Alexander Mitchell, W. L. Truitt, John A. Logan and Bert P. Woodard, all of the Sewer Advisory committee. Chairman Herman Nelson of this committee was absent.

REJECT PROTESTS ON CENTRAL AVE.

Improvement to Be Ordered By Council at Session Thursday Morning

All protests on the improvement of Central avenue were denied by the City Council at this morning's session. The work will be ordered in at the Thursday morning session, July 3.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county to improve its right of way along Sycamore Canyon road between Sinclair avenue and Sierra avenue, by proceeding at once to advertise for bids for the construction of improvements similar in nature to those hitherto constructed for the control of flood waters.

Order Improvements

A resolution of award for the improvement of Columbus avenue was adopted. City Engineer Benjamin F. Dupuy was ordered to proceed with the improvement of Forest avenue between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue, the estimated cost being $4000.

An application for a maternity home was denied. Application for a three months' extension of time on the permit to operate a church tent on Glenwood road was granted. Protest against the assessment of Alpha road was denied. Protest on the opening and widening of Chestnut street was held over.

Grand Jury to Probe Long Beach Shooting

LONG BEACH, July 1.—Charles William Doris, rich Long Beach resident, who was found by police pacing a room in his apartment where the bodies of his wife and Henry D. Meyer, millionaire Pasadena merchant, were discovered, will be brought Thursday before the county grand jury for questioning.

Discrepancies in Doris' story of the killings have developed, according to the authorities, and District Attorney Asa Keyes will launch an exhaustive investigation. Doris told the officers Meyer killed Mrs. Doris and he himself was shot by a bullet from a gun in his own hands during a scuffle with Doris. According to Deputy County Coroner McDonald a bullet of .32-caliber and one of .38-caliber were found in Meyer's body, showing he was shot with two different pistols.

Yankee Polo Players Defeat Spanish Team

ST. CLOUD, France, July 1.—The United States polo team scored another victory today in the Olympic polo matches, overwhelming Spain, 15 to 2. Boeseke and Hitchcock were the stars in the American offensive. The Spaniards scored once in the second chukker and again toward the close of the game.

Republican Leaders Name Publicity Head

WASHINGTON, July 1.—George Barr Baker of California and New York today was appointed director of publicity for the Republican national committee. The appointment was announced by Chairman William M. Butler.

LAST YEAR'S MARK NOW EXCEEDED

Construction In This City For Six Months Reaches Sum of $5,259,467

Another million dollar building month has been rolled up, permits for June, 1924, totaling $1,000,785. Building permits for the first six months of 1924 exceed even the great record of last year by $107,357, reports Superintendent H. C. Vandewater of the building department.

He states that from January to June, inclusive, this year, the permits issued total $5,259,467. January to June, inclusive, 1923, the total was $5,152,110.

At this rate, Glendale will exceed last year's $10,000,000 building record by at least a million dollars, Mr. Vandewater points out.

See Bright Prospects

With many large buildings planned, including tall office structures, hotels, apartment houses, hospitals, prospective additions to the school and city plants; and with literally hundreds of smaller buildings planned, ranging from bungalows to palatial homes, the prospects for another banner building year are excellent.

For First Six Months

Following are the figures for the first six months of this year and last year:

	1923	1924
January	$1,024,336	$1,029,533
February	1,019,613	805,706
March	1,036,475	968,050
April	582,998	626,754
May	588,637	828,639
June	900,051	1,000,785
Total	$5,152,110	$5,259,467

With practically every other city in southern California experiencing a building slump, Glendale, still "the fastest growing city in America," is enjoying prosperity, say building officials.

POLICE RECOVER EMBASSY BANNER

Jap Government Pledges Aid In Clearing Up Theft Of American Flag

TOKIO, July 1.—The American flag cut down and stolen from the United State embassy grounds today was recovered tonight by the Akasaka police who found it hidden in a tent.

According to the police it was stolen by a member of an antired patriotic society and an arrest was predicted for tomorrow.

Foreign Minister Shidehara, to whom protest had been made earlier in the day, called on Charge d'Affaires Caffrey and assured the latter the government was doing everything possible to satisfactorily deal with the incident.

Two monster mass meetings are being held and the chief of police told reporters he feared trouble because the entire city is given over to anti-exclusion demonstrations.

Milk Shortage Is Cause of Suit as Hungry Calf Bawls

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—A bawling calf and a hungry cow are the subjects of a suit filed here this morning in a neighborhood row at Santa Monica.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Burdett of 2433 Kansas avenue allege that Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Peabody own the calf that bawls while its mother is being milked, in a vacant lot adjoining the Burdett home.

The scion of the bovine bossy is staked twenty-five feet away from its source of supply and disturbs the neighborhood with its noise, it is set forth.

For the annoyance the Burdetts ask $1000; they also pray that the court abate the cow pasture, or something of the sort.

JAPS BARRED BY IMMIGRATION LAW

New Exclusion Act Goes Into Effect Today Despite Oriental Protest

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Japanese and other Orientals are barred from the United States under the immigration law which went into effect at 12:01 o'clock this morning.

Despite the protests of Japan against the terms of the law, immigration officials of the department of labor expect the Japanese officials to cooperate with a view for strict enforcement of the new restrictive provisions.

Extra precautions will be taken, however, at Pacific ports to keep Orientals from being smuggled into the United States in violation of the law.

New Quotas Fixed

The entry of approximately 162,000 aliens into this country during the fiscal year beginning today is provided for in the new immigration regulations. Last year 358,000 were admitted.

"The quotas of all foreign countries were fixed in a proclamation issued by President Coolidge, the figures being determined on the basis of 2 per cent of the number of nationals which each country had in the United States in 1890.

Japan Will Maintain Rights, Warns Premier

TOKIO, July 1.—Unimpaired maintenance of Japan's international rights was the keynote subject of a speech made by Premier Kato in the Japanese diet here this morning.

"Japan cannot view the unusual international activities of the other powers and their increasing influence abroad without realizing that many administrative activities of our country need refreshing."

He mentioned the immigration exclusion matter calmly, stating that the government hoped to solve the question by reasonable means.

U. S. Envoy to Protest Missionary's Murder

SHANGHAI, July 1. — The United States legation at Peking is expected to lodge protests with both the Peking and Canton governments as the result of the murder of George Douglas Byers, American missionary, on the island of Hainan in the China sea, by Chinese bandits June 24, according to reports here today.

Byers had been a member of the Presbyterian mission at Kachek, island of Hainan, since 1906. He is survived by his wife and four children, all of whom are reported to be safe at Kachek.

Ship Yard Employes Halt Fire In Vessel

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Prompt work by employes of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation's Union Iron Works here today, later assisted by the city fire department, quickly put out a blaze said to have been caused by oil waste in the engine room of the Oceanic company's liner, Sonoma. There was no appreciable damage to the steamer, it was said. The Sonoma is laid up for repairs.

CITY MAKES REDUCTION IN POWER

Shut Off Hours From 6 to 8 Each Morning In Force Till Further Notice

Material reductions in kilowatt consumption are now showing up, states Superintendent Peter Diederich of the city light and water department, and with proper conservation the two hour cut from 6 to 8 o'clock each morning will be sufficient to obtain the necessary 25 per cent reduction demanded by the Southern California Edison company.

"The reduction schedule is now working out nicely," says Mr. Diederich, "and I believe we are going to get along without any great harm done to anyone. If the people of Glendale will continue to co-operate as they are now doing, we will continue to have twenty-two hours of light out of each twenty-four. Proper conservation will, in short, enable us to get along with no more than the present two hour a day cut."

Hundreds of names will be on the petitions which will be presented to the City Council Thursday morning, asking that body to take steps to secure a municipal power plant for Glendale, as well as auxiliary engines to furnish immediate relief in the light and power shortage, according to W. A. Horn, former city councilman, and chairman of the emergency committee of the Kiwanis club, which drafted the petitions.

"Every one of the workers has reported unusual response," Mr. Horn said. "So far, there has been only one person who has refused to sign the petition. I will not mention his name, but he refuses, to support any movement where a little additional tax might be added, regardless of the benefits the community will receive."

Shortage Delays Mails

Copies of the petitions have been placed in a number of business houses, banks, lodge rooms, at the office of The Glendale Evening News, and are being circulated in the residential districts, according to Mr. Horn.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson reported today that the shortage of power caused unusual delay in the handling of mails early this morning, since it was impossible to start the cancellation machine, which is capable of handling 1000 letters a minute, until nearly two hours after the usual time.

Loses Valuable Time

"The first of the month always means a heavy mail," Postmaster Jackson said, "and today was no exception. Letters that ordinarily would have been sent out on the early trains had to be held over until later trains, a delay of from three to six hours, because the stamps could not be cancelled in time. We generally start the cancellation machine around 7 o'clock each morning, and on heavy days, it is started earlier, but when there is no power until 8 o'clock, there is a lot of valuable time lost, as far as getting out the early mail.

"The matter has been reported to Postmaster General Work. We are doing all we can here with hand stamps, but it is impossible to compete with the machine."

URGES PEOPLE TO CONSERVE POWER

Superintendent Diederich In Talk to Members of Exchange Club

The power and light shortage has been passed down to Glendale, and Glendale residents must bow to an act beyond the control of human beings, Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, told members of the Exchange club at the meeting held today noon at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

The light rains and snowfalls of last winter are responsible for the shortage today, he said. While Glendale is getting twenty-two-hour service daily, it is possible to get twenty-four hours if the residents will cooperate in conserving light and power.

Consumption increased instead of decreased when the first mention was made of the shortage. The matter of shortage will be forgotten in another week or ten days, he said, when residents of Glendale become more settled to conditions.

USE DODGES FOR EARLY MAN HUNT

Scientists Buy Fleet for Desert Exploration In Wilds of China

Led by Roy Chapman Andrews, who returned from Asia a year ago with reports of startling scientific discoveries, a party of scientists sailed recently for China to seek proof of the theory that man existed in the Grest Gobi desert 1,600,000 years ago.

As part of the equipment, the party will take with them American-built cars and motor trucks, among which are five specially equipped Dodge Brothers cars. The Dodge cars that were taken with the last expedition, Professor Andrews told officials of the Dodge factory, were responsible to a great degree, for the success that attended the explorers' efforts, in making it possible to accomplish the work of thirty years in three years.

R. E. Corrigan, 116 West Colorado street, local dealer in Dodge Brothers cars, is today delivering to the Glendale police department a Dodge touring car, which was selected, he says, because of the sterling service other cars of this make have rendered in the past under the hard conditions of police work.

Light Flickers

By PHIL OSOFER

Glendale is a city of experiments.

* * *

During the war it experimented with eatless, meatless and cheatless days.

* * *

Now it is going to try lightless nights.

* * *

Some people are just taking the matter lightly by letting their lights burn; but they will soon be left in the dark.

* * *

Like in the days of old the wise virgins go to the filling stations for oil for their lamps.

* * *

A lot of women are pleased that the power is turned off part of the day. It gives them an alibi for dirty rugs; by not being able to use the vacuum cleaners.

* * *

The lovers in automobiles are even complying with the regulations, by turning off all their lights.

* * *

If you see a man running about hatless and coatless, don't think he has had some poison moonshine, he may be just looking for some artificial moonshine to light his abode.

* * *

Grocers are waxing fat by selling candles.

* * *

The slogan seems to be—
Water, water, for lawns and clothes,
Morning, noon and night.
Water, water, everywhere,
But not one drop for light.

* * *

By the way, why not try a feather? That's light enough!

Adjutant of Verdugo Hills Post Urges Veterans To Fill Papers

LA CRESCENTA, July 1.—Adjutant Baron of the Verdugo Hills post of the American Legion announces that all ex-service men, whether legionnaires or not, should make application at once for their deferred compensation. Mr. Baron has the blanks and stamped envelopes at his office, corner of Altura and Pennsylvania avenues and is ready to help every ex-service man make out his report. It is necessary, he says, that each man bring his service report with him.

During the summer months the Verdugo hills post of the American Legion No. 288 will meet only once a month, the third Wednesday of July and August. Beginning with September the post will meet two evenings a month, the first and third Wednesdays of each succeeding month.

On July 10 the people of La Crescenta valley will hear District Commander Eugene Wix speak to them on the aims and ideals of the American Legion. Mr. Wix will speak at the mass meeting called by the Verdugo City association to discuss matters of vital importance to the entire valley.

See Night Blooming Cereus' Buds Unfold

SAN BERNARDINO, July 1.—Have you ever seen the night-blooming cereus? Many residents of this city were accorded the privilege last week of visiting the home of Undersheriff T. O. Carter where blossoms faded away with the dawn.

There were only three buds on the plant, one blossoming each night and dying at daylight—a theme for the muses. The cereus resembles a small magnolia blossom, it is said, with the same waxlike petals.

Although it is a member of the cactus family, it has no thorns. The flower is a pale ivory except for the innermost petals which are purple, making it most beautiful, shaded.

Mr. Carter says it will not bloom again until next summer.

Hard boiled eggs can be bought in the streets of most of the towns in Mexico.

Telegraph Operators Can't Find Glendale

Back in Cleveland, Ohio, there appears to be a little doubt as to where Glendale is. Mrs. C. E. Rich of 1022 Boynton street wired her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Rich, of that city, some days ago, and requested her to wire back. No return wire came. Finally there came a letter from Cleveland, the sister stating that the telegram had been returned to her: "Can't locate."

Now, inasmuch as there are two Glendales in California, Mrs. C. E. Rich thinks the telegraph company should have been able to locate at least one of them.

Motorists Flock To See Latest Model of Buick

The center of interest today for exacting motorists, and all who crave the combination of beauty and mechanical perfection in an automobile, is the show rooms of the Tanner & Hall Buick agency, where the new 1925 six-cylinder Buick is on display for the first time.

Throughout the nation Buick distributors are displaying the new models, for today has been designated as "debut day" in Buick circles. Shortly after the word was passed around among Glendale motorists that a new model of the Buick line was in the city, several hundred persons visited the show rooms at 622 South Brand boulevard to inspect it.

Tanner & Hall today are showing the open touring model, and as soon as the other models arrive, they will be displayed. So many demands were made by Buick distributors for the new models for "debut day" that the supply was necessarily limited.

Will Replace Four

The new six-cylinder car will replace the Buick four, and hereafter the Buick factories will turn out only six-cylinder cars, according to W. A. Tanner, one of the members of the firm.

"All Buick cars will be equipped with four-wheel brakes and semi-balloon tires," Mr. Tanner said, in speaking of the 1925 models. "The Buick factory experimented with all types and styles of tires before deciding on semi-balloon or low pressure tires. Their experiments covered over a million and a half miles of roads under all sorts of conditions, and all kinds of roads.

"It was not a question of price when it came to the tires. It was a matter of what tire would give the best service, would stand up the longest and afford the most comfort in riding. With the low pressure tires, there is no need to cut down the wheel, no change in rims, and no adjustments necessary as is the case with balloon tires. If a buyer wants balloon tires, they can be added, however."

Explains Features

Ray D. Galvin, sales manager, in explaining the many new features of the 1925 model Buick to those who called to see it, pointed out the long list of needful accessories included in the purchase price. Practically everything any motorist would desire on his car, without any useless and costly articles taking up room, are to be found on the new Buick, Mr. Galvin said.

"Comfort and ease are something more than mere words or sales talking points in the new Buick," Mr. Galvin said. "Every Buick owner knows how easy it is to handle his car, and is well acquainted with the vast amount of reserve power under the hood. With the new Buick, these features stand out more than with former models, for the Buick engineers have made many valuable additions.

"The day of the four-cylinder car is slowly passing. There will still be four-cylinder cars sold and made, but Buick officials realize that the demands for six-cylinder cars will lead, and accordingly are putting out a powerful six at a price that can be favorably compared to many four-cylinder cars."

Local Firms Plan to Send Mail by Plane

Air mail out of Glendale for connection with the eastbound plane at Salt Lake City after rail transportation is growing heavier, Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson reported today. Many business men have inquired regarding the schedules and rates, Postmaster Jackson said, and indications point to a number of banks and brokers making use of the fast service for eastern points. Harrower Laboratories have purchased a large supply of airplane mail stamps, it was learned, while other firms have also been buying these special stamps.

POWER SHORTAGE DELAYING MAILS

Postmaster Takes Matter Up With Department Heads at Washington

Postmaster General Hubert Work has been informed by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson of the delays caused in handling mails by the shutting off of the electrical power in Glendale by the Southern California Edison company, it was learned at the local postoffice today. A telegram informing the postmaster general of the cut in power, and the resultant delay by reason of the cancellation machine being useless during the "off" period, was sent by Postmaster Jackson.

"The matter of causing delays in handling the mails was first taken up with city officials," Postmaster Jackson said. "I told the mayor, Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, all the city officials I could reach, and even sent word to the Southern California Edison company, that shutting off the power would mean a serious delay in getting out early mail.

Misses Peak Hour

"I was told by the city officials that they were acting under the instructions of the Edison company, and were helpless. They are, and I know it is not their fault. Then I took the matter up directly with the postoffice department in Washington."

Early mail for the north, which should have left Glendale at 8 a. m., did not get out until 11 a. m., Postmaster Jackson said today. The turning on of the power at 8 a. m., instead of waiting until 9 a. m., greatly helped the postoffice, he said, since the peak of the morning mail comes between 8 and 9 a. m.

Add Two More Trucks To Parcel Delivery

Glendale took one more step in the direction of a metropolitan city today when two parcel post delivery trucks were put into service. These trucks will deliver parcel post within the city limits and will also make pickups of mail at the collection boxes, but will not make pickups of parcel post matter at residences, Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson said.

Prior to today the parcel post matter was delivered by two carriers using their own automobiles, for which the department made an additional allowance.

LIGHT AND POWER SITUATION HARD BLOW

Failure of the Southern California Edison company to make provision to care for its patrons in the case of such an emergency as a light rainfall is one of the greatest blows that has struck Glendale and other sections of Southern California in a good many years. The foot and mouth disease was a great calamity, but that was something, in a measure, beyond man's power. It affected business adversely, but it had no bearing on our reputation as a progressive locality. Eastern papers that took advantage of the foot and mouth epidemic to advertise a business panic in Southern California will now have an opportunity "to give us the razz proper."

A region where homes and business houses are at the mercy of a corporation that can say, "Lights out" and "Power off" is not as desirable as one where business and industry are not likely to be crippled by the arbitrary withdrawal of power and where the social life and the home life are not subordinated to the poor management of a corporation.

Two years ago the people of California protected the light and power corporations from having their functions assumed by the state. We listened to these private corporations when they told us about their resources and their ability to serve us, and this is our reward.

California is dependent upon her rainfall in many ways, and we are not guaranteed a certain amount of rain any year. A shortage of water is something that water and power companies should have learned long ago to provide for. When Glendale was a small town and there was being developed in Verdugo canyon many times the amount of water needed for our use, our public service department stressed the need of providing for emergencies, such as a low rainfall for several consecutive years and a rapid growth in population. Water bearing lands were purchased, wells were drilled and reservoirs built, all in the face of a good deal of opposition. Many people could not see why money should be wasted this way. If the City Council, T. W. Watson, city manager, and Harry Lynch, superintendent of the municipal water department, had not taken precautionary measures at that time we should look back now and say they had been criminally careless.

How such an organization as the Edison company could have failed to provide for such an emergency as a low rainfall which we may expect any year in Southern California, and thus put itself in a position where it is compelled to "throw down" its patrons is something that no one is able to explain.

THE SMALL TOWN AND THE CITY

Sinclair Lewis started the slander of the small town and he was so successful that many other authors followed his lead. Write a story in a Main street setting, create characters that are weak and stupid and possessed of none of the finer and the nobler instincts, weave a plot that is sordid and pointless, omit all touches of humor, warmth and beauty and you will have a type of modern story that is very popular.

Corrinne Lowe is about the only writer who has had the temerity to come to the defense of the American small town. Soon after Main Street became popular she took up her cudgel and has since ably vindicated the American small town against the insinuations of Lewis and others and compared it favorably with the American city and with the foreign small town. She has proved that American small town people may be and often are intelligent and cultured and that village life is more natural and normal and makes for greater health and happiness than city life.

Although culture is supposed to ooze from all but the very lowest classes in Europe, Miss Lowe found that the women of the better classes in the small towns of France, Italy, Switzerland and to some extent in England, were dull and uninteresting; they know little or nothing about literature, ancient or modern; they scarcely recognize the names of artists and authors of their own countries; and the men are very little better in this respect.

There are some intellectual advantages in living in a large city where one may hear the best in music and the drama, see the really fine in art and hear lecturers and speakers of renown. But, only a small per cent of city dwellers avail themselves of these privileges. About the same per cent of small town people go in for what is known as culture, they read and travel and make opportunities to improve themselves. So, after all, the make-up of the American small town and the city is pretty much the same. There is human nature in both and that changes very little.

Glendale is fortunate in being too large to bear the stigma of "Main Street" and not large enough to include the disadvantages of a large city. And yet, we are so near to a city that we may enjoy all it has to offer.

MONEY WELL EXPENDED

The Rockefeller Foundation last year spent $8,431,000 in "promoting the migration of scientists and administrations, helping to diffuse more rapidly new ideas, strengthening world centers of teaching and research, in short, fostering medical science and public health as forms of international co-operation."

More specifically, the Foundation spent its money fighting yellow fever, malaria, hook-worm and other plagues in many parts of the world, and in promoting rural sanitation.

Fine! A splendid record, clearly indicating what can be done with money to make this world a better sphere to live on. But those eight millions and some odd hundreds of thousands of dollars are a mere drop in the bucket, compared with what should be spent annually to do the things in a big way—the things that the Rockefeller Foundation is doing in a small way.

If the governments of the "civilized" nations would spend each year for peace and life and health one-tenth of what they consume for war and death and ruin, there might be some real hope for the future of the human race.

Some graduates will begin at the bottom—and some will begin at the bottom five years from now.

It's a cinch to lift a 3000-pound automobile, compared with lifting the mortgage on one.

As a general rule, the more the salesman gushes, the less the well gushes.

A friend in need is, unfortunately, all too frequently the one you dodge.

What Is to Become of This World?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Statesmen and political spokesmen are given more these days to viewing with alarm than to pointing with pride.

The ponderous editor vies with the excited soap-box orator in showing us we are on the verge, on the verge.

Preachers and literary folk demonstrate that ruin is just ahead.

In fact, a good part of the energy of our instructors and entertainers seems to be devoted to scaring the daylights out of us.

Meanwhile the world goes lumbering on. The ocean heeds the apostrophe of W. S. Gilbert:

"Never you mind—roll on!"

Little children are playing marbles in the street, the cook is busy peeling potatoes, the young lady and her June-spice are holding hands in the parlor, Pa is busy selling nails at the hardware store and Grandma is knitting on the front porch.

Only here and there one of us gets heated up in our mind and feels the world is wobbling.

What of it? Suppose we bang into a comet tomorrow? Suppose the Bolsheviks blow us up and the Japanese grab the pieces, and the trusts and capitalists devour us, and all the labor unions strike, and the baby chokes on a quarter, and the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse come loping over the hill, and there's a panic, and the end of the world comes the fifteenth of next month and the devil flies away with us?

What are you going to do about it?

In spite of our fits of despair the world is getting better all the time. The poorest among us have comforts and luxuries that even kings did not have a few years ago.

God is attending to the universe. And even if you don't believe in God, you must admit that You are not running it.

Time stalks on. Evolution continues to evolve. Dsetiny has its own plans, and is mighty close-mouthed about them.

All our life is an adventure. Nobody, outside of the graveyard, is safe. Sin was in the world long before little Johnny began to cry over it, and will probably still be on hand long after he has wiped his eyes and gone to bed.

All we can do is each, in his small corner, to play his part and be as happy as he can.

We'd as well be happy. Why not? For whether we be glad or sad, the universe rolls on, as aforesaid.

The Creator made the world. It's His, not ours. And neither the little boy at school nor grown-ups who ought to know better accomplish anything but their own undoing when they play God.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as a fortunate day, for Mars, Mercury and Venus are all in benefic aspect.

It is a time most favorable to the plans and ambitions of military men. Honors for a general again are forecast.

Much constructive work will be accomplished during the next two months in which there will be widespread effort toward improvement in living conditions.

Factories should benefit at this time when there probably will be an extraordinary demand for certain products.

This is a most auspicious sway for advertising of every sort and especially for publicity concerning women.

Writers have the prospect of great gain through some sort of commercial channel.

Women have the best possible direction of the stars at this time and should make the most of whatever opportunities are offered in business.

There is a promising outlook for all who seek success by means of imaginative gifts. Musicians, painters and authors should prosper during the remainder of the year.

Lovers have a fair direction of the stars today, but they will attain higher happiness through letters than by means of social intercourse.

There is an auspicious forecast for all who marry under the planetary government. Long life and happiness appear to be indicated for all who wed today.

Merchants who deal in women's wear have the forecast of much business, but their profits may be below normal.

Women in politics will profit at this time which should bring them substantial recognition.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect an active and successful year, but they should not devote too much time to pleasure and to company. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly bright and clever. These subjects of cancer usually rise rapidly in business or professional life. They are naturally endowed with determination and are usually intuitive.

Today's Poem

RECOMPENSE

The gifts that to our breasts we fold
Are brightened by our losses;
The sweetest joys a heart can hold
Grow up between its crosses.

And on life's pathway many a mile
Is made more glad and cheery,
Because, for just a little while,
The way seemed dark and dreary.

MacArtney has won attention in these fields. He has contributed literary and historical articles to magazines, has been much in demand on the speaking platform and is known as a thorough theological student.

He is forty-four and unmarried. He was born in Northwood, O., Sept. 18, 1879. He studied at the University of Wisconsin, Princeton and Princeton Theological Seminary and was ordained to the ministry in 1905. His first pastorate was at the First Church in Paterson, N. J. The Ravings Of a Grouch

The way the traffic situation is handled is enough to disgust a law-abiding citizen, a man who, like myself, has common sense and can reason.

It must look like a three-cornered fight to a man in an airplane. The man who drives a car is fighting the pedestrian and trying to drive him to cover and the officers are fighting the motorist and trying to eliminate him entirely.

The man who drives a car often seems to think he owns the road. The man ahead of him, the man who passes him, or the man behind him really have no rights and his neighbor who is walking really should not attempt to cross the street. He should remain in seclusion in his own home. If he is compelled to repair for a time to a hospital or to the grave it is due to his own temerity in venturing out of doors.

If I drove a car I would use common, every-day courtesy to other drivers and to people who walk. I would drive at a reasonable speed, slow up at intersections and always stop to allow pedestrians to cross the street, unless I were in a hurry. I have given many a driver a lesson in this respect by walking across the street very slowly and deliberately, looking in neither direction as if I did not know cars were approaching. This, of course, compelled them to stop and wait until I had made my leisurely way across. This is good discipline for drivers but a trifle dangerous for the one who administers it.

If I were a speed cop I would use a little sense and reason. If a stranger were violating a law he didn't know existed I would stop him and tell him about it courteously. I would not be the cause of motorists avoiding the town, by my discourteous and unreasonable treatment of them. I would chastise the reckless driver and give my attention to him. I would be reasonable with the good driver who has sense enough to avoid an accident and get out of a predicament although he has to speed up a little to do so. I would try to use commonsense in dealing with every situation.

If I were in charge of this department I would try to employ men who are courteous and reasonable, for a city's reputation rests in the hands of its speed cops to a certain extent. It doesn't take long for the word to get around that such and such a city is to be avoided. I would do away with a system that would determine a man's efficiency by the number of his arrests. I would impress upon my men that the laws were made for the good of the public and not for purposes of revenue, that they were the servants of the public and not the masters. I would not have my men feel that unless they had made a specified number of arrests within a specified period they had failed in their duty.

I should like to have a chance to show how I would handle this situation but really competent people are rarely placed in such positions. I should like to show drivers how to conduct themselves on the road but until I can afford a car I shall have to be content to prove myself an agile dodger.

Glendale Now Making Reduction In Power

newspapers in Southern California, holding a business meeting at the City club in Los Angeles last night, heard H. W. Brundige, member of the State Railroad commission, H. G. Butler, newly-appointed power supervisor, and others discuss the power shortage.

The officials warned the publishers of the shortage and at the same time declared that if conservation is followed industries will have sufficient power. The officials declared that industries and payroll producers must have power above all others.

It was pointed out that the power companies are putting discarded steam plants into use and every effort is being made to keep the industries fully supplied. The speakers declared that conservation must be made to the limit on display signs, window displays, in homes and other places where power can be cut without affecting payrolls.

URGES PEOPLE TO CONSERVE POWER

the matter of a division of gas taxes up to a vote of the people. He said $70,000,000 annually would be divided among the cities of California for street and road work if this measure carries. On his recommendation, President R. E. Johnston appointed T. F. Fambrough as chairman of a committee to supervise the circulation of gas tax petitions in Glendale.

Speaking on the light situation, City Manager Stone told of the Citizens' Bond committee appointed, and outlined his recommendations to that committee on an auxiliary plant. He said he was not going to embarrass this committee by telling them what to do or what not to do in the matter.

Makes Motion

Harry M. Bennett, the Exchange club's representative of the Citizens' Bond committee, and chairman of the sub-committee on a modern garbage plant for Glendale, made a motion asking the club to endorse City Manager Stone in the appointment of the committee and their work, and to oppose any petitions being circulated for an emergency power plant.

President Johnston relinquished the chair when the motion was presented, saying that he was opposed to such a motion. Judge H. W. Chase said he did not consider the motion was a proper one to bring before the Exchange club at that time.

City Manager Stone said he was opposed to any action of the club or any other organization that would cause any strife or division in the city. In support of his motion, Mr. Bennett said that the matter should come before the proper committee first, he felt.

Changes Motion

He explained the method under which the sub-committees of the Citizens' Bond committee acted, and said he felt the committees should have recognition or they should be discharged. President Johnston replied that he considered it would be a dangerous precedent for the club to set.

Mr. Bennett then changed his motion to make it read that the club go on record as opposed to any petitions being circulated for any matter now being considered by these sub-committees at the present time, until the questions involved had been disposed of by the proper sub-committees.

Write to Harrower

Acting upon the modified motion, the members voted in favor of it.

Secretary T. F. Culhane was named by President Johnston to occupy the chair during the discussion and action on the motion.

The members of the club will write letters to Dr. H. R. Harrower, who is now visiting in London, it was decided at the meeting. This action followed the reading of a letter from Dr. Harrower to the club.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. F.—You ask why I am always advising whole wheat bread. You have heard that McCollum, one of the noted nutrition workers of the Johns Hopkins University, has said that white bread is all right. If you had read McCollum's article on this subject, you would have noticed that he said white bread is all right provided you get a quart of milk a day and liberal servings of greens and fruits. McCollum's contention is that with a diet of a quart of milk and greens and fruits, you get sufficient vitamins and mineral elements so you don't have to worry whether your bread contains them or not.

The reason why I am always advising whole wheat bread is that it is not possible to get sufficient greens and milk and fruit all the time; and as a factor of safety, it is better to use bread which contains its minerals and vitamins also. Of course I don't want to give the impression that whole wheat bread is a perfect food. It isn't. The protein of whole wheat, or of any of the grains, is not a complete protein, and two-thirds of the protein taken (especially in a child's diet) should be the complete proteins—that is, protein which contains all the elements necessary for building and repairing the muscles and the other tissues. If the whole wheat bread is made with milk or milk powder, it is a more perfect food, because the milk is a complete protein. Whole wheat bread is a coarser bread and helps to overcome constipation also. I like it best, don't you?

Mrs. M.—You are five feet, one inch tall and weigh 145 pounds. You are bothered with a rash and itching on your skin when it is exposed to the sun. This eczematous condition caused by the sun's rays is not uncommon. I have known quite a number of cases. There is some condition of the body evidenced in the skin which, in combination with the sun's rays (probably the light rays and not the heat rays) causes an unusual chemical reaction.

For five feet, one inch, in height, you are thirty pounds overweight, according to our rule for 110 pounds for five feet in height and five and ive and one-half pounds for every inch over five feet. Undoubtedly your overeating is causing this chemical manifestation. Reduce your weight to normal and I think you will find this affliction will disappear. Meanwhile, of course, don't expose your skin to the sun's rays.

As you are nursing your baby, you must have a quart of milk a day, plenty of vegetables, especially green leaf vegetables, some fruit and some nuts. Take the nuts for their protein, instead of meat. You say in your letter that you eat lots of fruit. Perhaps you take too much. We can overdo any good thing, you know.

Mrs. S.—Jumping rope, walking, running, rising on toes—all of these are good exercises for developing the calf and ankles. They also help to take off fat where there is any excess.

J. H.—No, catarrhal infections of the nose and passages leading out from it, do not lead to cancer. You may have to have an operation in order to get good drainage. Meanwhile, are you getting sufficient vitamins and mineral elements—in general, a balanced diet? We know that a catarrhal condition can be brought about by a diet lacking in vitamins and mineral elements. Include in your diet every day at least one-half to one pound of green salads and one-half pound or so of other vegetables and fruits and two or three glasses of milk.

The white of an egg applied to the face is an astringent, and when it dries up it certainly does pull the pores together and helps to stimulate the skin. It would have the same effect as the clay beauty packs. If you want to have some fun, have two or three of your friends apply the egg and then have somebody else say something funny while it is drying.

Inexpensive Salad Dressing—"Mix together in the upper part of a double boiler two tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon of flour, one beaten egg, one cup of sweet milk, one and one-half teaspoons of dry mustard, one small teaspoon of salt, and one small piece of butter. Place the pot over the fire and when this mixture is well heated (over boiling water) stir in one-third of a cup of vinegar. Continue to cook till thick, then remove from range and beat smooth with an egg beater. Cool and chill before using. This is an excellent dressing for vegetable salads." (Contributed by "A Friend.")

Currant Dumpling—"Two cups of bread crumbs, two cups of ripe currants, one cup of raisins, a small piece of suet chopped, two tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon each of ground cinnamon, allspice, and soda, one-half teaspoon salt, and enough flour to bind the mixture together. Moisten the bread crumbs in a little hot water, then add all the other ingredients in the order mentioned. Either steam for three hours in a regular steamer, or tie the mixture in a piece of clean white cloth, place it on a saucer in a pot containing boiling water, and let the water boil steadily for two hours, adding more water as necessary. Serve with a sweet sauce, or with milk and sugar, or just plain" (Contributed by Column Reader.)

Note—Dried currants may be substituted for the fresh in this recipe. Three or four tablespoons of flour will be sufficient to bind together. The dumpling may also be steamed in a buttered baking powder can like any steamed pudding, which has a tightly fitting cover tied on, and which is weighted down in enough boiling water to rise to can-top, and left in this boiling water two hours.

Potato Loaf Cake—"Cream together one cup of sugar, three-fourths of a cup of butter, add two beaten egg-yolks, three-fourths of a cup of sour milk in which one and one-half teaspoons of soda is dissolved, then also add one and one-half cups of flour, one tablespoon of cocoa powder, and three-fourths of a cup of finely chopped walnuts and seedless raisins. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla, then fold in the two egg-white stiffly beaten. Bake from 40 to 60 minutes in a greased loaf cake pan in a moderate oven. Spread with any desired icing." Business Quiet But Panic Feeling Absent

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—Business in this section continues quiet but there is no evidence of the slightest panicky feeling. The crop situation is attracting more attention than politics and the condition of the farmers is fair and their attitude confident, although unfavorable weather continues. Banks are full of money. Industry production is not equalling consumption as manufacturers have cut down, and the buying is very conservative.

Check Forest Fires, Save National Parks

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Severe forest fires which during the past week have threatened national parks in California were reported today by District Forester Paul G. Redington to be under control, with indications at the present time that closing of these areas to hikers and campers, as was contemplated last week, probably would not occur.

Forty-eight per cent of the deaths last year from automobile accidents were of children under 15 years of age.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

NICE LOOKING ELBOWS

For a long time, Paris threatened to give us long sleeves. Every fashion letter announced the sleeve that reached or even concealed the wrist, every Paris house put out at least one model to give truth to the announcement. Then the designers decided that after all there was nothing more attractive than nice looking arms and nice looking elbows, and anyway, it was summer and hot as well, so off came every vestige of a sleeve. The latest tailored suit that I have seen from the fashion centre consisted of a sleeveless silk frock banded with serge, and a long, tailored serge coat, with here and there a touch of the frock's figured silk. As for evening gowns, they've neither sleeves nor even armholes!

What about yourself and these new fashions? Will your arms stand inspection? Probably. Most people have nice arms, only the very lean or the very fat need bother a great deal about their arms. But what about your elbows? Few people have really pretty elbows.

If you haven't, give them an oil bath every night. No matter how old you are, no matter how thin, you can have young and pretty elbows by the simple process of scrubbing them vigorously with hot water and soap and then rubbing them well with lard, cocoa butter (warmed), skin food (that is, any cold cream made from vegetable oils), olive or almond oil. This treatment should be done at night when possible, and in the morning, the elbows dipped or rinsed in cold water, when you wash your hands or at the end of your bath. That's to shrink the skin, which always stretches and bags at the elbow. If you're fat, you needn't bother about elbows, dimples instead of joints here are the fat woman's consolation for her surplus flesh. Should you reduce, you may have the elbow problem.

B. D.—The rash comes from some condition in your system, and it is fortunate for you that it does because you would be ill if nature was not relieving you this way. If it returns, the best thing would be to have the doctor prescribe for you even though you do not feel sick.

Dell—Any soap made from a fine oil will do for the complexion. Your colors are all those usually found in the autumn foliage.

Treat the elbows with skin food

Anxious Reader—The crude oil treatment is given at night, when oil is massaged into the scalp as hot as possible. Cover head to keep from soiling bed linen, and next day shampoo thoroughly so as to remove all trace of the oil.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be asnwered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

BUICK PRESENTS ITS 1925 MODELS

Eight New Body Styles Are Shown In Designs for Coming Season

Eight new body models on a chassis of 114⅝-inch wheelbase, embodying a new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine with a 3-inch bore and 4½-inch stroke, is the sensational announcement made by the Buick Motor company. The new six-cylinder model is to be known as the Standard Six.

The body models will consist of a five-passenger double-service sedan, a two-passenger roadster, a two-passenger enclosed roadster with heater, a five-passenger touring, a five-passenger enclosed touring with heater, a two-passenger double-service coupe, a five-passenger sedan, and a four-passenger coupe.

Probably the most striking features of the new models are the completely enclosed sedan and coupe on the open cars, and the low-pressure tires on all models. The cars with the enclosed tops will carry heaters. The tops and sides are so designed that they harmonize with the distinctive body lines. They are upholstered with leather, with special cushion springs, effecting a high degree of motoring comfort. Other models are furnished with upholstery of durable cloth in pleasing colors.

Valve-in-Head Engine

The engine is a valve-in-head type with automatic lubrication throughout and with the cylinder head removable. The clutch and transmission form integral parts of the engine, which is suspended at three points from the main frame. The crank shaft is a drop-forging, extra heavy and balanced with four large bearings. The pistons and connecting rods are properly weighted and carefully manufactured. Large valves are operated by noiseless, adjustable push rods through rocker arms which are automatically lubricated from the engine. This engine produces fifty actual brake horsepower.

It has pressure feed lubrication to the crankshaft and connecting rod bearings, also to the cam shaft and pump shaft front bearings, rocker arm bushings and push rod socket joints, as well as timing gears. The oil pump is of gear type, positive drive, located on the right side of the engine, and driven by worm on the center of the camshaft. It has a maximum pressure of thirty pounds, regulated by relief valve. Pump oil screen is reinforced to prevent collapsing. Pistons, cylinder walls, cams, rollers, and the other cam shaft bearings lubricated by mist of oil, oil capacity four and one-half quarts. Fan automatically lubricated from reservoir in hub. Water colling is by centrifugal pump operated from the cam shaft by spiral gears. Harrison cellular radiator is employed.

Control is by means of short spark and throttle levers in the center of steering wheel, friction-retained. There is a button type foot accelerator with rest. The clutch pedal is easily operated. Long leverage brake pedal and starter pedal conveniently located Gear shift and emergency brake levers are convenient to the right hand.

Ignition System

The carburetor is the improved automatic float-feed, supplied by vacuum system from the gasoline tank mounted on the rear of the frame. Automatic heat control insures proper vaporization at all speeds. The air regulator and choke buttons are on the instrument board.

Ignition is supplied by the high tension jump spark system, the current being supplied by storage batteries and Delco electric generator. The spark advances automatically. The starter is a complete Delco single-unit system for starting, lighting and ignition, built as an integral part of the engine and operating in conjunction with the large storage battery. Combination switch with ammeter and automatic circuit breaker is found on the instrument board.

The clutch is a multiple disc, dry plate, requiring but slight pressure to operate. It is very smooth in engagement and very positive in action, and the adjustment is particularly simple.

The transmission is the selective sliding gear type, three speeds forward and one reverse. The gears are special and heat treated. There is positive interlocking hand control so easy to operate that the gears can be shifted with the tips of the fingers.

Through single, large, improved, automatically lubricated universal joint and fully enclosed propeller shaft, through spiral gears in rear axle, is the drive. The propeller shaft housing connects directly with the rear end of the transmission by ball joint enclosing universal. Strut rods from the front end of the propeller shaft housing to the axle housing keep them in perfect alignment. Both torque and drive are taken through ball joint.

The rear axle is the three-quarter floating type, which means that all the weight of the car is taken on axle tubes and only driving torque is taken by axle shafts. The differential is mounted on high duty ball bearings, pinion shaft on extra large ball bearings, rear wheels on Hyatt roller bearings. Spiral bevel gears are fully adjustable.

Four-Wheel Brakes

The service brakes are Buick type, external contracting, operating on drums of unusual size and area on all four wheels. The equalizer insures proper distribution of pressure to front and rear brakes. They are easily adjusted for wear with adjustments very accessible. Hand brake of internal expanding type, operating on rear wheel brake drums only.

Drop-forged I-beam of carbon steel, reverse Elliott type, double heat treated steering knuckles and tie rod yokes characterize the front axle. Axle especially designed to operate with four-wheel brakes. New departure ball bearings for the front wheels.

The wheels are of artillery type with hub flanges. Tires are 31x 4.95 inch, low-pressure, on all models.

The steering gear is of improved semi-irreversible split bronze nut and steel worm with large adjustable ball bearings to take up wear. Steering wheel is seventeen inches in diameter, short spark and throttle levers in center of steering wheels. Horn button on top of steering post.

The frame is of re-inforced steel channel, section, exceptionally stiff and deep side members. Four heavy cross members. Integral gasoline tank support and spare tire carrier.

The front springs are semi-elliptic type. The rear, cantilever type, both being exceptionally long, especially heat-treated, and adapted for each body type.

Tops on open cars have a new design quarter curtain, made of special waterproof fabric. Inside operating side curtains open with doors. Models with permanent tops, sides enclosed by glass windows adjustable for ventilation. Enclosed models with stationary type tops with windows adjustable.

Other Equipment

Models 24, 24-A, 25, 25-A have two-piece ventilating type windshield with inside operating, adjustable friction stops to hold glass in position. These models are equipped with cowl ventilators and windshield wiper. All closed models equipped with sunshade, automatic windshield wiper, new style one-piece windshield, easily raised or lowered for ventilation by handle in similar manner to windows.

All the models have been equipped with drip pan for the carburetor, and completely insulated wiring, which, with the attention to other details approved by the insurance underwriters' laboratories, entitle Buick owners to the lowest rate for fire and theft insurance.

As standard equipment on all models are carried dim and full headlights with anti-glare lenses, parking lights on cowl, tail lamp and instrument board lamp, motor driven horn, seventy-five-mile speedometer, gasoline gauge, tire carrier with extra demountable rim, jack, new type high pressure grease gun, full kit of tools, pump, tire repair kit, transmission lock, cowl or windshield type ventilator, rear vision mirror, running board, scuff plates, new sunshade and dome light on all closed models, windshield wiper, automatic windshield wiper on all closed models.

WARN OF DANGER IN GRASS FIRES

Officials Urge Citizens to Exercise Care During Present Dry Term

EAGLE ROCK, July 1.—With grass fires becoming daily more of a menace, Lieutenants E. W. Welty and W. E. Ayers of the local fire department are urgent in their request that every precaution be taken to prevent fires from getting out of control.

There are certain regulations which must be complied with, they state, declaring that the fire department exists to serve in the capacity whereby it can instruct residents and prevent fires as well as dedicate the energies of the fire-fighter to extinguishing them. When Eagle Rock was incorporated into Los Angeles, people in this district had little conception of the dangers incidental to promiscuous burning at all hours, they state, especially in the business section. Today there isn't a business house that has not been visited by the officers of the fire department and hundreds of corrections have been made. Any one of these, according to the fire department, might have been the cause of a serious fire.

At Garden Party

Twelve members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Post 227, were present at the garden party given in their honor at the home of Mrs. A. G. Reilly, 1750 Colorado boulevard, by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A large number of members of the D. A. R. were present and the afternoon proved highly enjoyable. Mrs. John C. Shedd presided graciously and introduced the speaker, Mrs. Sisson, national vice regent, who delivered an interesting address on topics of special interest to D. A. R. members.

Alaska Potlatch

Major H. L. Suydam, president of the Alaska-Yukon club, states how highly successful was the campfire at Sycamore grove on the afternoon and evening of June 21, the longest day in the year, which is always celebrated in the north.

Sourdoughs and friends brought refreshments and had a regular Alaska "potlatch." There were plenty of beans, sourdough bread and coffee for those who liked them.

Harry (not Jesse) James and his popular tribe of Western Rangers started the fire with their fire sticks about 7:30 o'clock. They entertained with outdoor stunts. There were Alaskan talks by old-timers, songs and readings.

OWL DRUG MAILS DIVIDEND CHECKS

Balance of Treasury Stock Will Be Offered to Stockholders

The general offices of the Owl Drug company, 611 Mission street, San Francisco, are today mailing checks covering the thirty-fifth consecutive semi-annual dividend payment on the outstanding 8 per cent preferred stock of the company. The dividend covers the six months ending June 30, 1924.

A letter by the president, C. A. Henry, accompanying the dividend checks, reports a very substantial business for the first half of this year.

The Owl Drug company, though originating in San Francisco over thirty-four years ago, is now a national institution — operating factories and stores in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Denver, and other important eastern cities, also throughout all Pacific coast states.

The announcement further states that since the last dividend date, the company has acquired all of the capital stock of the Sun Drug company of Los Angeles, as well as the merchandise fixtures, good will and leaseholds of that company, which operated a large number of retail stores in all important cities in southern California, including Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena and San Diego.

Build New Stores

In addition to eighty-five stores now in operation, there are also under construction additional stores in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Chicago.

With the enlarged business and the expansion program of the company now under way, the gross volume of sales for 1924 will approximate $20,000,000.

The notice to the stockholders further provides for the immediate issuance of the unsubscribed portion of the treasury preferred stock to the present stockholders in ratio of one share of preferred stock for every two shares each stockholder now owns.

After July 31 the option time for the present stockholders to exercise their rights expires.

Fireworks Banned in Foothills on Fourth

TUJUNGA, July 1.—Firecrackers and explosives of any kind will be absolutely taboo in the hills and canyons and picnickers, hikers and autoists are warned that no discharge of fireworks of any kind will be tolerated, is the statement issued by Deputy Fire Warden Leo L. Lang of the Tujunga district. Special permits must be secured by householders who wish to make a display on their own property. This restriction is necessary on account of the extreme dryness of the hillside vegetation, which makes the fire menace unusually grave this year.

GIVE CONCESSION PERMIT TO CLUB

Federal Probe Is Started as Park Company's Books Are Confiscated

BURBANK, July 1.—The City Trustees have granted the Goodfellows' club permits to operate concessions and street booths during July 4 and 5.

In a communication addressed to the board from the local Chamber of Commerce by Manager J. W. Charleville, it was requested that the local body be permitted to place a small sign at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Olive avenue, the sign to be on a suspended cast-iron pipe similar to the one of the telephone company at Orange Grove avenue and San Fernando boulevard. The petition was granted.

A federal investigation into the financial affairs of the Valhalla cemetery project has been launched with the seizure by post-office inspectors, working under subpoenas duces tecum from the United States district court, of the books of the Valhalla Memorial Park company, the Valhalla Mausoleum company and the Osborne-Fitzpatrick Finance corporation, all of whom have had offices of late in the Pacific Mutual building in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra H. Christensen are having an excellent time in Wisconsin, according to a letter received from them by a friend here. Mr. Christensen wrote from Indian Beach resort, Birchwood. He said they were in a wonderful country that was still so undeveloped that they saw deer and other wild animals every day; and he said too, that they were catching fish that weighed five to sixteen pounds each. Mrs. Christensen and the baby are well, he reported. The family expect to leave tomorrow for their camp on Butternut lake.

The Case of Jennie Brice — Serial Story

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART. Copyright, 1924.

CHAPTER XXXII

"He leaned over the table and looked at me. 'Well, how about a murder, then?' he said. 'You get the story for your paper, and I get some advertising for the theater. We need it, that's sure.'

"I laughed it off, and we separated. But at two o'clock Bronson called me up again. I met him in his office at the theater, and he told me that Jennie Brice, who was out of the cast that week, had asked for a week's vacation. She had heard of a farm at a town called Horner, and she wanted to go there to rest.

" 'Now the idea is this,' he said. 'She's living with her husband, and he has threatened her life more than once. It would be easy enough to frame up something to look as if he'd made away with her. We'd get a week of excitement, more advertising than we'd ordinarily get in a year; you get a corking news story, and find Jennie Brice at the end, getting the credit for that. Jennie gets a hundred dollars and a rest, and Ladley, her husband, gets, say, two hundred.'

Mr. Bronson offered to put up the money, and I agreed. The flood came just then, and was considerable help. It made a good setting. I went to my city editor, and got an assignment to interview Ladley about this play of his. Then Bronson and I went together to see the Ladleys on Sunday morning, and as they needed money, they agreed. But Ladley insisted on fifty dollars a week extra if he had to go to jail. We promised it, but we did not intend to let things go so far as that.

"In the Ladleys' room that Sunday morning, we worked it all out. The hardest thing was to get Jennie Brice's consent; but she agreed, finally. We arranged a list of clues, to be left around, and Ladley was to go out in the night and to be heard coming back. I told him to quarrel with his wife that afternoon,—although I don't believe they needed to be asked to do it,—and I suggested also the shoe or slipper, to be found floating around."

"Just a moment," said Mr. Holcombe, busy with his note-book. "Did you suggest the onyx clock?"

"No. No clock was mentioned. The—the clock has puzzled me."

"The towel?"

"Yes. I said no murder was complete without blood, but he kicked on that—said he didn't mind the rest, but he'd be hanged if he was going to slash himself. But, as it happened, he cut his wrist while cutting the boat loose, and so we had the towel."

"Pillow-slip?" asked Mr. Holcombe.

"Well, no. There was nothing said about a pillow-slip. Didn't he say he burned it accidentally?"

"So he claimed." Mr. Holcombe made another entry in his book.

"Then I said every murder had a weapon. He was to have a pistol at first, but none of us owned one. Mrs. Ladley undertook to get a knife from Mrs. Pitman's kitchen, and to leave it around, not in full view, but where it could be found.

"A broken knife?"

"No. Just a knife."

"He was to throw the knife into the water?"

"That was not arranged. I only gave him a general outline. He was to add any interesting details that might occur to him. The idea, of course, was to give the police plenty to work on, and just when they thought they had it all, and when the theater had had a lot of booming, and I had got a good story, to produce Jennie Brice, safe and well. We were not to appear in it at all. It would have worked perfectly, but we forgot to count on one thing —Jennie Brice hated her husband."

"Not really hated him!" cried Lida.

"Hated him. She is letting him hang. She could save him by coming forward now, and she won't do it. She is hiding so he will go to the gallows."

There was a pause at that. It seemed too incredible, too inhuman.

"Then, early that Monday morning, you smuggled Jennie Brice out of the city."

"Yes. That was the only thing we bungled. We fixed the hour a little too late, and I was seen by Miss Harvey's uncle, walking across the bridge with a woman."

"Why did you meet her openly, and take her to the train?"

Mr. Howell bent forward and smiled across at the little man. "One of your own axioms, sir," he said. "Do the natural thing; upset the customary order of events as little as possible. Jennie Brice went to the train, because that was where she wanted to go. But as Ladley was to protest that his wife had left town, and as the police would be searching for a solitary woman, I went with her. We went in a leisurely manner. I bought her a magazine and a morning paper, asked the conductor to fix her window, and, in general, acted the devoted husband seeing his wife off on a trip. I even"—he smiled—"I even promised to feed the canary."

Lida took her hands away. "Did you kiss her good-by?" she demanded.

"Not even a chaste salute," he said. His spirits were rising. It was, as often happens, as if the mere confession removed the guilt. I have seen little boys who have broken a window show the same relief after telling about it.

"For a day or two Bronson and I sat back, enjoying the stir-up. Things turned out as we had expected. Business boomed at the theater. I got a good story, and some few kind words from my city editor. Then—the explosion came. I got a letter from Jennie Brice saying she was going away, and that we need not try to find her. I went to Horner, but I had lost track of her completely. Even then, we did not believe things so bad as they turned out to be. We thought she was giving us a bad time, but that she would show up.

"Ladley was in a blue funk for a time. Bronson and I went to him. We told him how the thing had slipped up. We didn't want to go to the police and confess if we could help it. Finally, he agreed to stick it out until she was found, at a hundred dollars a week. It took all we could beg, borrow and steal. But now—we have to come out with the story anyhow."

"The Barrier," Rex Beach's dramatic play of a woman's soul, is treating audiences to a series of big thrills at the tent of Murphy's Comedians on Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue. Excellently acted and with admirable stage settings, the play is up to the best stock company standards in every respect.

Every night this week, promptly at 8 o'clock, "The Barrier" will be presented by Murphy's Comedians. Those who wish front seats may come as early as 7:15 o'clock, Manager J. A. Menard states.

While the rest of Glendale is threatened with darkness, within the tent there is no lack of illumination and the show will continue uninterrupted until the final curtain falls at 11 o'clock. This, states Mr. Menard of the comedians, is because they have their own lighting facilities.

Scaramouche Playing At United Theatre

Rafael Sabatini's masterpiece, Scaramouche, that is playing at the United Theatre, Eagle Rock, for a three-day run, beginning today, has already gained a place among the most spectacular and successful of the season's film offerings. The vivid portrayal of the stirring scenes of the French revolution, the sustained and coherent story of romance that runs throughout the play, and the acting of the all-star cast, place Scaramouche among the plays that really count. The picture is directed by Rex Ingram.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY MOVES A TABLE

"Uncle Wiggily!" called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day to the bunny rabbit gentleman. "Will you please move the library table for me?" Beneath the table there is a spot on the rug, where I spilled some tea. I want to clean the rug. So please move the table for me."

"I will do that with pleasure," Uncle Wiggily promised, "but I will wait until you go out, Janie. I can work much better when I am in the bungalow alone. You hop along down town to the movies, or go to the three and four-cent store and buy yourself a new piano, if you like. I'll move the table while you are gone."

"All right," said the muskrat lady. "Only don't make yourself lame lifting that table. It is a very heavy one."

"I'll be careful," said the rabbit gentleman, twinkling his pink nose. And, when Nurse Jane had gone down to the three and four-cent store to price pianos, Uncle Wiggily took off his coat and went in the library to see about moving the table.

"I'll see how heavy it is," said the bunny rabbit. He took hold of one end and tried to lift it. But the table held its legs close to the floor and wouldn't move. "I think I must grunt a little," said Mr. Longears. "Whenever I have watched elephants moving heavy logs, they always grunt a little. Now for a grunt."

So Uncle Wiggily grunted and then tried to raise the table. But still it remained stuck to the floor.

"I think I must grunt louder," the rabbit gentleman said to himself. So he grunted as loudly as he could, but still he couldn't lift the table. "Something is wrong," he said, and, getting down on his knees, he looked under the table.

"It isn't nailed fast," he murmured, "nor is it stuck by the tea the animal ladies spilled. It must be that I am not strong enough. I must eat more and get strong. Then I can lift the table. I'll eat a piece of carrot cake."

Uncle Wiggily went to the pantry where Nurse Jane had left a carrot cake covered with cabbage frosting, and he ate a large piece. Then, once more, he tried to lift the table. He managed to raise one leg.

"Come! This is better!" he laughed. "I ate one piece of cake and I can lift one leg. I'll eat three more pieces of cake and I can lift the other three legs." So he ate three more slices of carrot cake with cabbage icing on, and he again took hold of the table. Up he lifted it very easily, because now, he was very strong. And, as Uncle Wiggily was carrying the table out into the living room, where it would be out of the way so Nurse Jane could scrub the rug, all of a sudden a voice cried:

"Ah, ha! Now I can nibble your ears! You have a table in your paws and you can't stop me!" And there stood the Fuzzy Fox.

"Please don't nibble my ears!" begged the bunny.

"Yes, I shall!" barked the Fox. He made a jump for the rabbit, and Uncle Wiggily wanted to cover his ears with his paws, so the bunny let go of the heavy table, dropping it to the floor.

"Ouch! Ouch! Wowchie, scowchie!" suddenly howled the Fox.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"You dropped the table on my paw!" howled the Fox. "One of the legs is on my paw and holding me fast! Lift the table up and let me go!"

"Ha!Ha!" laughed the rabbit. "Do you think, now that you are caught under the table, that I will lift it up and let you loose so you can nibble my ears? Not so! Besides I am not strong enough to lift that table until I eat some more cake!" So the rabbit ran out into the kitchen to get more cake, and there he telephoned to the Police Dog, who came and arrested the Fox. Because the Fox couldn't get loose while the table was on his paw.

When the Fox was locked up Uncle Wiggily finished moving the table and then he helped Nurse Jane scrub the spot off the rug, so everything came out all right —even the spot. And if the fire shovel doesn't jump in the bath tub to get cool after playing tag with the scuttle of coal, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twistytail.

WHITE SOX WILL MEET ISLANDERS

Carl Sawyer Will Lead His Team to Catalina for Three-Game Series

Not all the fireworks at Catalina Island next Friday will be the work of youngsters and youthful grownups. The main fireworks will take place at the ball diamond when the Glendale White Sox, led by Carl Sawyer, will meet the Catalina Cubs Friday afternoon in the first of a series of three games to be played on the island.

The pale hose wearers will leave Glendale in time to catch the 5 o'clock boat at Wilmington Thursday afternoon, according to the plans now being arranged. After a night's rest and a workout Friday morning on the diamond where the Chicago Cubs train, the Sox will be ready for the big game, which is expected to attract thousands visiting on the Magic Isle.

Saturday afternoon the second game of the series will be played, and Sunday the Sox and Cubs will start their battle early to enable the Glendale players to catch the late afternoon boat for the mainland.

Beaten Only Twice

The Catalina Cubs have lost only two games this season, the El Segundo team and the Gilmore Oilers chalking up these victories. On paper it looks like the Sox would have a walkaway with the Islanders, but since the defeat by the Oilers last Sunday, efforts have been made to get some Coast league talent into the islanders' lineup. Should the islanders succeed in bolstering up their lineup, it might not be so easy for the Sox.

While the Sox are cavorting around the island diamond, and looking for flying fish when not playing ball, the American Legion will occupy the local spotlight. Teams to play here over the weekend have not been selected, but more detailed announcement will be made tomorrow on this subject.

Yank Net Star Wins Way to Semi-Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1.—R. Norris Williams, American expert, today entered the semi-finals of the tennis championships being played here when he defeated A. R. Kingscote, one of the English stars, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Vincent Richards was beaten by J. Borotra of France, 6-4, 4-6 6-0, 6-3.

In the fourth round of the women's doubles Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup beat Mrs. Bouverie and Mrs. Hills, 6-2, 2-6, 9-7.

In the third round of the men's doubles Carl Fischer and Norman E. Brookes defeated Jean Washer and G. Watson, 6-4, 3-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Watson M. Washburn, American, was eliminated by Louis Raymond, South Africa, after a hard-fought match, the third set going 32 games. Scores 6-0, 7-5, 17-15.

TAGGING THE BASES

The Senators gained a little ground when they broke even with the Red Sox, while the Tigers lost to the White Sox. The Yankees were breaking even with the Athletics, climbing back into second place. Washington's lead over the Yanks now is 2½ games.

The Giants trimmed the Dodgers while the Cubs were losing a hard fought battle to the Reds and now have a 5½ game advantage in the pennant race.

Ruth crashed his nineteenth homer, while Fournier smashed out his fifteenth and sixteenth.

The Cardinals broke their losing streak—downing the Pirates 7 to 5. Hornsby's homer aiding them in the victory.

The Braves won the first game from the Phillies 9 to 4 but were stopped in the twilight by a score of 6 to 4.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP

By FAIR PLAY
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, July 1.—Firpo having confirmed the report that he is coming to this country to fight Harry Wills, naming July 5 as the sailing date, all that remains for Tex Rickard to do is to see that Wills takes care of his hands. If he comes up to the battle date with hands and everything else in good condition, Rickard may find a paying crowd on hand. He may.

If Jimmy Dougherty of Leadville, whose pugilistic property seems to be increasing in value all along the line, can bring Bobby up to a Tendler bout this summer, Philly will have a home-and-home affair worth bragging about. And beating Tendler, Barrett will be in the limelight as one of the leading—if not the leading—contender for king Benny's crown.

George Chaney, the knockout artist from Baltimore, has the ambition to end his prize ring career with a record of a hundred knockouts. In Philly the other night he tucked his left under Danny Bolgers' chin and the man from Manayunk went to sleep upon his back. This was Chaney's 98th sleeping dose.

SPORT WISDOM

NEW YORK, July 1.—Can Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, defeat the famous Suzanne Lenglen in the British championship finals toward which they are working?

Nobody, of course, knows, but here is how Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory sizes up her chances, and Mrs. Mallory ought to know a lot about both players:

"It is very difficult to forecast the result of an unplayed match, but I can say that the day I beat Mlle. Lenglen I was in such tip-top form as I have never since succeeded in reaching. In my opinion, my countrywoman will have to use all her advantages to the utmost to beat the French champion. Miss Wills has strength and quickness. Mlle. Lenglen plays an even game unparalleled by other players. Draw your own conclusions."

McCarthy Gets 287 as Tilers Beat Cleaners

The Glendale Tile & Mantel bowlers made it three straight in their match with the Central Cleaners last night at the Recreation alleys. McCarthy, after rolling 192 in the first and 181 in the second, came within thirteen pins of having a perfect score in the final match, when he rolled 287.

BARRETT-TENDLER BOUT IS FEATURE

Bobby and Lew to Hook Up In Philadelphia Some Night This Month

By FAIR PLAY
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, July 1.—Bobby Barrett and Lew Tendler at the Philly ball park is a feature that will surely attract a lot of fans from New York. This chiefly because Barrett has come through a lot of adversity to be a fighter with a future. Barrett can hit and that after all is what the fans pay to see.

If Barrett should stow away Tendler—and Lew is a tough bird for anyone to stow away—Bobby will be directly in line for a battle with Benny Leonard.

But the next bout of interest will be Harry Greb and Stribling, on July 4. Stribling was awaiting his turn to enter the ring against Loughran at the Milk Fund show the other night and had a good chance to study Greb's showing against Ted Moore." Greb is certainly quick and active," said Stribling "and throws his gloves around so that it is pretty hard for a lot of them to miss a fellow." That was his only comment. He seemed more interested in Greb's work than worried about it.

Paddy Mullins says that it was on his advice that Harry Wills saved his hands against Bartley Madden and that if any blame is coming he is willing to take it. Firpo, says Mullins, will be the man who has the only genuine kick about the condition of Harry's hands on August 30 next.

GIL DOBIE BACK FOR SUMMER JOB

Cornell Football Coach to Be Backfield Prof at Illinois Again

By LAWRENCE PERRY
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, July 1.—How much, if anything, did Gil Dobie the Cornell football coach, have to do with the development of "Red" Grange, the star Illinois back, last summer?

This question is rendered pertinent by the fact that Dobie has again joined Bob Zuppke at Urbana as backfield professor in the summer school coaches. Gossip last fall was that Dobie, producer of Pfann and Kaw and other backfield stars, gave a lot of attention to Grange last summer. He may not have done so, the writer, understand, is merely repeating gossip.

Has Another Prospect

At all events, it is known that Zuppke has another backfield prospect of whom he thinks as highly as he did of Grange at this time last year. Also there are one or two other prospects.

Dobie's western sojourn, in view of all things, seems therefore to have more or less significance. Summer football practice is not permitted at the western conference colleges, but what is more reasonable than that students, say at Illinois, should be more or less active in a department of university work that comes under the regular curriculum?

They have a saying in the conference that sophomore stars are seldom upper-class stars in the Big Ten football firmament. If this should prove true in the case of Grange a new ' minary or, better, two, would not displease Zuppke at all. But something r ore than tradition will be required to keep Grange back this fall.

COLIMA, ROCKSON ON VERNON CARD

Plenty of Action Promised In Main Event Tonight; Other Good Bouts

Fight fans who flock to Jack Doyle's Vernon arena tonight will see a fast mill when Bert Colima and Mickey Rockson hook up in the main event. Colima got back into the good graces of the arena followers recently when he upset the hopes of Bobby Corbett in two slashing rounds. Rockson has demonstrated he knows a thing or two about this four round chatter, and is expected to carry the fight all the way.

In the semi-windup Young Datto and Babe Herman will mix things. Ernie Hood, of Pasadena, will make his Vernon debut against Frankie Grandetta. Young Farrell meets Ruby Levine. Other bouts are Manny Kaplan and Jimmy Banks, 160 pounds; Young Letty and Johnny Jarvis, 130 pounds, and Walter Hall and Bud Shelby, 126 pounds.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

By Southland News Service

With grain and provisions and wheat and corn all rising, the farmer has reason for optimism, despite the crop conditions in the middle west.

E. H. Hutton & Co.'s leased wire says: "The advance in corn prices is meeting with little resistance, the large volume of buying orders coming in being influenced by the unfavorable growing conditions and excellent demand for cash grain. Country offerings continue light."

Miami Copper declared a regular 50-cent dividend, payable August 15, stock of recorded August 1.

A long period of idleness for the Boston Rubber Shoe company of Malden, Mass., has been ordered by the United States Rubber company. Seventeen hundred workers will be off the payroll for five weeks.

Strenuous efforts are being made on the Los Angeles market to bolster Southern California Edison common, which slumped with the announcement of the power shortage affecting southland cities. Edison is buying much steam-generated power, it is reported.

COMMENT
That's All

Improvement Of Service Insurance Is Necessary
Los Angeles In The Sun Thrive Better In Southland

By Gil A. Cowan

Because of the power shortage this column must be written hours in advance of publication. Therefore the writer feels inclined to talk about the Southern California Edison company on general principles.

On second thought, criticism would be like water on a duck's back. Corporations thrive on it. They wouldn't be happy unless they had a fight on their hands.

Look at the Southern California Telephone company, for instance. It is trying to jigger up the rates to Culver City where the motion picture studios are located. It wants to collect a 10 cent toll like it does in Glendale for talking with Los Angeles.

Of course, that toll is expensive, but certainly it has improved Glendale's service by providing sufficient income for the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company to spend money with a free hand.

Likewise, the Pacific Electric is being fought by the beach cities for a lower fare. Heaven knows they charge enough for a single trip to Glendale as compared with the ride you get for a nickel in Los Angeles on the yellow car lines.

But the Pacific Electric is investing its money in a subway which will bring Glendale closer by twelve minutes to the heart of Los Angeles. And it is buying new equipment (which has not been seen on the Glendale line, by the way), and otherwise improving service.

So you can see it isn't the price we pay for things that counts. It is the service we get for the money. And if it costs a little more to operate a municipal plant to generate electricity, or if it costs a little more for the light we use to pay off the bonds on such a plant, we should do so willingly with the full realization that this city is assured a permanent supply of light and power.

Pasadena has such assurance. So has Redondo Beach and numerous other cities.

It is time for Glendale to invest in a little insurance for its industries.

The Democratic convention has provided a good show for New York. And undoubtedly the cliff dwellers of Manhattan island now appreciate the fact that there is something more to these United States than the Jersey horizon.

A style writer commented on the fact that the women delegates from "out of town" dressed with equal style to those who hibernate in Gotham. Nothing strange to that. The styles for American women are actually set in our neighbor city of Hollywood.

Say what you want, but the man who talks about Los Angeles becoming the greatest city in the world is not as crazy as his words indicate.

A New York speaker the other night in Los Angeles, said: "You are destined to become second to Chicago."

That's practically true now, with Chicago fast losing its prestige. Los Angeles as the "front door' of America to the greater part of the world is going to be greater than New York in time. Here's why:

Manufacturing conditions in Southern California are 20 to 25 per cent better than elsewhere in the United States, it has been discovered.

Climate here is so equable the year 'round as to attract the largest number of retired citizens, as you already know to be true.

Development is so recent that modernity will prevail and all the problems of Los Angeles will have been solved by the other great American cities at their expense and our profit.

Children thrive better in Southern California than elsewhere, the ground is more productive, the cost of living is less than in any other metropolitan area, and opportunities for education and success are greater.

How can you keep the greatest aggregation of people on earth away from this section in view of those facts?

We ask to know, for Glendale is going to benefit from every new citizen coming here and every new dollar put in circulation.

What we want to do, however, is to make our plans accordingly.
